四、阅读理解（共 20 小题；每小题 2 分，满分 40 分）

(A)

It's not easy to be an astronaut's son. Everybody expects you to be special or perfect. I often wonder how my father ever had a son like me. I mean he's so special and so good at everything he does. Even in middle school he was class president and captain of the football team.

Well, to be honest, I often dream about being some kind of hero or doing something special—like saving a child from a burning building or discovering a new star. I was daydreaming at school one morning when my teacher said there would be a Father's Day writing competition for the whole school. "I hope we have a winner right here in my class."

When I got home, I started to think about what to write. My father is an astronaut. No, I wouldn't start like that. That was the way others saw him. How did I see my father? Hmm. I saw him sitting with me in the dark when I had a terrible dream. I remembered how he hugged me for hours when my dog Spotty was killed by a car. Yes, these were the things I was going to write. To me, he wasn't just a world famous astronaut. He was my dad.

My parents and I went to school on Thursday night. There were so many people in the big hall! My dad looked at me, and I shrugged(耸肩).

The third prize was announced and it was not me. I was relieved(释然) and disappointed at the same time. The second prize was announced. It was me. I went up to the stage and read what I had written, "My father's son". When I finished, the people stood up and cheered. I saw my father blowing his nose. Tears were running down my mother's face. Dad cleared his throat and put his hand on my shoulder. "Son, this is the proudest moment of my life."

It was the proudest moment of my life, too. Maybe I'll never be a great hero or win a Nobel Prize, but it was enough just to be my father's son.

46. The writer felt it _____ to be the son of a famous person.

- A. lucky B. natural C. hard
D. pleasant

47. In order to _____ the writer would like to save a child from a burning building.

- A. become astronaut B. become a great hero
C. be made school team captain D. be made class president

48. What did the boy probably write in his composition?

- A. A lot of special things he had done.
B. The story of his father as an astronaut.
C. The unforgettable time he spent with his father.
D. The experiences his father had in middle school.

49. The writer felt proud when he _____.

- A. got a prize in a writing competition B. won a Nobel Prize
C. saved a child from a burning building D. discovered a new star

50. What is the best title for the passage?

- A. My daydream B. My father's son
C. My famous father D. My happy family

(B)

There are many colors in nature. But do you know if a color has weight? I think you'll say "no". But I am afraid you are wrong. If you don't believe, you may do a small experiment.

First, put two objects with the same weight into two boxes. Then cover the boxes. Third, wrap one box with a red piece of paper, the other with a white piece of paper. OK. Now hold the boxes with your hand one by one. It is certain that you will think the red one is a little heavier.

Why do you think so? A scientist found that different colors have different weights in a man's mind. So he did many tests and at last he got the result. That is to say, every color has its own weight in our mind and their order is the same. The heaviest color is red, then blue, green, orange, yellow and white.

The scientist told us that colors also have smell. Can you smell the color? Of course not. Then why did the scientist say so? That is because every color stands for a kind of light with a certain wavelength. It reaches our brain through sense organs.

According to this discovery, scientists say that people accept the colors they like, and refuse the colors they hate. So your body and mind will be healthy by using the colors you like. Or you'll be nervous or even get ill. For example, if you stay in a room with red windows, wallpaper and furniture for two hours, you'll feel you have been there for four hours. But if the room is blue, you'll feel you have been there for only an hour. Another example, if a person walks out of a red room and into a blue room, his temperature will fall. That means our body temperature will change with different colors.

51. The purpose of the second paragraph is to tell us _____.

- A. a red box is heavier than a white one
- B. a color has weight in one's mind
- C. white paper is lighter than red paper
- D. you can know the weight of a color by holding it

52. Why did the scientist say colors have smell?

- A. Because people can sense the light from colors.
- B. Because we can smell colors with our nose.
- C. Because every color has its own sweet smell.
- D. Because every color can give off light of the same length.

53. If a person walks from a blue room to a red room, his body temperature will _____.

- A. rise
- B. fall
- C. stay the same
- D. change now

and then

54. It can be implied from the text that _____.

- A. colors have orders in weight
- B. colors can change the weight of an object
- C. people would stay longer in a room with red windows
- D. colors can affect our mood and health

55. This passage is probably a _____.

- A. book review
- B. fiction novel
- C. fairy tale
- D. science

report

(C)

You may have heard about North Korea in the news recently. It has a troubled relationship with many countries, including South Korea and the United States. Why is this small country causing so much trouble?

Kim Jong Un is the leader of North Korea. His father, Kim Jong Il, led the country from 1994 to 2011. Both leader have used military threats to show their control. North Korea has one of the world's largest armies, trying to have unclear weapons.

On Tuesday, North Korea officials warned all foreigners to leave South Korea for their own safety. But the U.S. and South Korea say they have not seen military movement or clear signs that there will be a war between South and North Korea.

Many countries, including the United States, have spoken out against North Korea. On Monday, China's President, Xi Jinping, said no country should be allowed to make the world be in danger.

North Korea and South Korea share a history and a language. Korea was under control of Japan from 1910 to 1945. After Japan's failing in World War II, Korea was divided into two countries. North Korea built a communist government. South Korea became a republic. Each wanted to reunify Korea under its own government.

While South Korea has become very rich, North Korea is still very poor. In years past, South Korea tried to improve relations by giving help to North Korea. But the North continues to grow its army and unclear-weapons program.

On February 12, 2013, North Korea made an underground nuclear test. It was the country's third nuclear test since 2006. Park Geunhye, the president of South Korea, has said he hopes to talk with North Korea about their relationship and build trust through aid. But it appears that North Korea may not be willing to meet South Korea halfway.

61. When did Kim Jong Un begin to lead North Korea?

- A. In 1994. B. In 2011. C. In 2014. D.

In 2013.

62. What happened on Tuesday?

- A. North Korea warned foreigners to leave South Korea.
B. South Korea said they saw some military movement.
C. The U.S. saw the clear signs that a war would break out.
D. A war between North Korea and South Korea broke out.

63. Which of the following is NOT true?

- A. North Korea and South Korea don't have the same language.
- B. Park hopes to improve the relationship between North Korea and South Korea.
- C. China's President hopes the world is in peace.
- D. North Korea and South Korea don't have the same government.

64. Before the World Word II, _____ controlled Korea.

- A. America
- B. South Korea
- C. North Korea
- D. Japan

65. How many nuclear tests did North Korea do?

- A. One.
- B. Two.
- C. Three.
- D. Four.

Everyone may have the exam stress. A little bit of stress can be a good thing to us.

It can help us think positively and it does good to our study. What's more, it can make us go over what we have learned on time so that we won't forget easily. However, if we have a lot of stress, it will do us more harm than good. For example, lots of stress will make us hard to fall asleep and then the next day we will be very tired. Besides, we will be afraid of the exams and as a result, we will fail the tests.

In order to deal with this problem, we should make plans to review the lessons and be ready for the exams. In addition, not to be too nervous before the exams. Lastly, you can tell your friends or parents about your trouble, I'm sure they will help you overcome your problems.

I hope my advice can help you all.
